

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

Herein are the Terms of Use (hereafter the 'Terms of Use') for the website <http://carnot.com> (hereafter the 'Site'), establishing the agreement between Productos Científicos, S.A. de C.V. (hereafter 'Our Company') and any user accessing the Site. The status of a user (hereafter the 'User') shall apply to anyone who accesses the Site, implying their full and unconditional adherence to these terms of use. Consequently, it is essential for the User to read and carefully assess these terms beforehand, being aware that they are subject to them and to any modifications that may occur each time they access the Site. In the event of total or partial disagreement with these Terms of Use by the User, they undertake to refrain from using the Site.

These Terms of Use are general for Users or the general public accessing the Site. However, certain sections or areas within it may require requests for access or special authorizations. For some sections of this Site, the User may need to provide certain personal data (hereafter "Personal Data"), which Our Company will manage in accordance with the usage policies included in the Privacy Notice. The user must give explicit consent for the use of their information.

Through the Website, we provide Users with various information related to the general aspects of Our Company. As a company committed to healthcare areas, our Website does not in any way provide information that could be considered medical advice or treatment, nor can it be interpreted as a substitute for the work of healthcare professionals; the sole purpose of the Website is strictly informational.

Users should take this into account as special sections (e.g., Healthcare Professionals) will only be accessible to healthcare professionals. The User will be required to register on the Website or within the special sections under the conditions established by Our Company.

Nothing contained on this Site shall generate any ownership rights for the User over the Site itself or any of its elements or contents.

The use of the Site will comply with applicable laws. The User must refrain from any act that infringes upon the rights or interests of Our Company, hence undertaking to refrain from using the information contained on the Site in a manner contrary to current laws and regulations or for any purpose other than that permitted by Our Company.

The User acknowledges and agrees that the use of the Site is at their sole and strict responsibility; thus, Our Company will not, at any time and under any circumstances, be responsible for any malfunction or problem occurring in the computer equipment (hardware) or computer programs (software) that the User uses to access or navigate any part of the Site.

The Site and its derived contents have an indefinite duration. Our Company reserves the right to modify, at any time and without prior notice, the presentation, configuration, information, contents, and in general, any part or aspect directly or indirectly related to the Site.